Ice Good for Hair.
Explorers say that the frigid zones give immunity from common colds. But no recent explorer seems to have mentioned the old belief that long sojourns among the ice are good for the hair. This was the firm conviction of whaling skippers in the days when Dundee was the port for the Arctic. It was said that even the baldest of seamen contrived to grow a passable crop of hair before returning.

How He Ate the Hay.

There are still some mighty eaters left. Not long ago a Berlin market porter undertook, for a wager, to put away at one sitting six mutton chops, 12 eggs, a goose, a duck, six pounds of potatoes and 22 pounds of hay. Difficulties were anticipated with the last course, and large sums were laid against the accomplishment of the feat. The ingenious porter solved the difficulty by calling for a cigarette after he had finished the duck. He then set light to the hay, pounded the ashes up with the potatoes, and swallowed the lot. After a heated discussion the referee declared him the winner.

"Doctors said I had consumption and the dreadful cough I had looked like it, sure enough, I tried everything, I could hear of, for my cough, and was under the treatment of the best doctor in Georgetown, S. C. for a year, but could get no relief. A friend advised me to try Dr. King's New Discovery. I did so, and was completely cured. I feel that I owe my life to this great throat and lung cure." Its positively guaranteed for coughs, colds, and all bronchial affections. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free at W. H. Windrow's.

LOCAL OPTION IS DEMOCRATIC.

By Clarence Osley.

I am asked to give an opinion as to whether local option or state-wide prohibition is more in accord with democratic principles, and in answering I try to divest myself of all personal preference for local option as a measure of temperance.

Local option is the refinement of local self-government; state-wide prohibition is the exercise of state sovereignty. In principle, therefore, both are fundamentally and historically democratic. But that is an answer in abstractions and does not touch the question; it serves only to show how terms may be employed to the confusion of thought.

In like manner it might be shown that prohibition by either state or county is undemocratic because it denies the individual opportunity to satisfy his appetite, and that is an infringement upon personal liberty, for if the state or county may prohibit the sale of spirituous or malt liquors it may prohibit the sale of tobacco, coffee and tea as harmful narcotics, or even of mince pie and pork chops because they are injurious to persons with weak or impaired digestion. But that is reducing an argument to an absurdity.

These abstractions being cleared away, let us now consider which method--local option or state-wide prohibition--more nearly accords with democratic principles as applied to the particular problem, for some problems are inherently state-wide and some are inherently local.

The whiskey business--that is, the saloon business, which is the aspect of the whiskey business chiefly involved in this discussion--is inherently a local problem. It is a matter touching the peace and good order, the customs and appetites of the community only. A saloon in Fort Worth does not concern a man in Dallas any more than a coffee house in Dallas concerns a man in Fort Worth. It is a purely domestic affair, like the kind of municipal government which one city prefers, or which is best adapted to our city according to the judgment of its citizens, and which may not be adapted to another city; or like the road law or stock law which may be suitable to one county and not suitable to another county.

At every session of the legislature special road and stock laws are enacted for particular counties upon request of their citizens through their representatives. In this wise the legislature enacts what the citizens by local option elect. In respect to the liquor traffic, the makers of the constitution anticipating the varying desires of precincts and counties, or their varying needs as their people might determine, provided for the communities themselves to determine by popular vote the status of the liquor business. And in doing so they exemplified the principle of local self-government in matters pertaining wholly or mainly to the people of the community.

The Democratic doctrine of state sovereignty not only reserves to the states all rights and powers which are not expressly granted to the federal government, but it holds that all matters which concern the people of the state exclusively or chiefly should be left to the state government. The precincts and counties of Texas in like manner not only have vested in them the right to control the liquor traffic, but the Democratic principle applied in them.

It is important to remember that the selling of intoxicants is not an evil in itself, like theft or arson; it is a thing falling under the police power only because of its incidental effects and dangers, like the storage of explosives or the sale of drugs that are harmful or poisonous in large doses but harmless or helpful in small doses. Therefore, the business is not to be considered as a crime in itself which the state sinfully licenses. No fair man will contend that it is a crime for one man to sell another a beverage--a single glass of whiskey or a single bottle of wine or a single jug of cider; the evils of which complaint is justly made grow out of the injuries to health and to character which come from the intemperate use of intoxicants and from the disorderly conduct and social and political demoralization which are engendered by the saloon business. But these injuries are incidental, personal and local; the business does not fall within the classification known to political science as "mala in se" or evil in itself. Hence it is not subject, from a democratic standpoint, to that sweeping outlawry which sovereign state undertakes against crimes and misdemeanors that are inherently wicked or that threaten the whole body politic with a state law or prohibition.

Communities like individuals differ in custom and in temperament, and democracy seeks to conform its administration of law to the peculiarities and the preferences of its varying constituent communities by allowing them to exercise their own will or local option in matters which affect them without materially affecting other communities.

This brief discussion leaves wholly aside the interesting question of the comparative expediency and efficiency of local option and state-wide prohibition. That is a matter of both experience and philosophy. But I cannot refrain from adding that according to my careful observation and earnest study, both experience and philosophy confirm in this as in all things governmental, the wisdom of a consistent and discriminating application of democratic principles.

GOV. MARSHALL

FAVORS LOCAL OPTION.

College Journal Says His Expressions Are Sage and Timely.

From the Houston Post, March 12 Indianapolis, March 11.--Thomas R. Marshall, governor of Indiana and probable candidate for the democratic nomination for president of the United States today gave to a representative of the National Model License league the following authoritative and emphatic statement of his position on the liquor question:

"To begin with, let it be understood that I am not a saloon man. "I believe in the doctrine of local self government which, in Indiana, I have construed to mean the city and the township as units, rather than the larger units.

"I have serious doubt as to the possibility of the enforcement of any prohibition law until the sentiment of a community rises to the degree that the use of intoxicating liquors in that community is frowned upon. I believe that the city and the township have the right to outlaw the saloon.

"Upon the other hand, I do not believe from the viewpoint of constitutional government, that I have any right to compel any one to adapt his mode of life to my mode of life.

"I have therefore felt that until people come to believe that the excessive use of intoxicating liquors is detrimental, not only to the individual citizen but to the state at large, that in all those communities where a majority of the people do not want the saloon excluded, it should be strictly regulated. In other words, I believe that where people will drink, it is infinitely better to have them obtain liquors openly at licensed saloons rather than in dark places and surreptitious ways at illegal places.

Governor Approved.

Commenting upon Governor Marshall's attitude, The Notre Dame Scholastic, a college journal, on March 25, said:

It is by no means a rare occurrence for Governor Marshall to express opinions upon the legislative problems of his state which are characterized by sound logic, sincere conviction and uncommon insight.

"His recent statements on the liquor question, made before representatives of the Model License League, for their conservatism, their good sense and yet their vigor, might well be accepted as principles of action by those who can see only one side to the question. To begin with the governor said, let it be understood that I am not a saloon man. "I have serious doubts as to the possibility of the enforcement of any prohibitory law until the sentiment of any community rises to the degree that the use of intoxicating liquors in that vicinity is frowned upon. I believe that the city and the township have the right to outlaw the saloon. Upon the other hand I do not believe from the viewpoint of constitutional government, that I have any right to compel anyone to adapt his mode of life to my mode of life. "I have therefore, been much impressed with the regularity features of the Proctor regulation law, which I, as governor of this state, have just approved.

"One can not fail to notice on the one hand the fair-minded and impartial manner in which he speaks about dealing with an institution to ward which he is personally opposed and on the other the sincere approval of the measure which will restrain the abuses and check the growth of that institution in a just and proper way. After so much ultra-extreme nonsense and sentimentality on the question, one derives from the governor's sane and timely words not a little satisfaction."

were over in town with little Bennie, and would drop in for luncheon if it would be convenient, and they had said of course it would be. Then they hastily examined the contents of the larder.
"We seem to be rather low on chocolate," announced Jessica, "but probably there is enough if we are careful.
We can give Bennie a little cup."
"Don't ever think it," warned mother, hastily. "Pick out the biggest cup for Bennie and be prepared to refill it a few times. You and I will take little cup or none, but don't ever think a child—especially a growing boy—isn't going to want the most of everything. If you make such a mistake you are likely to come face to face with the most terrible embarrassments. A much safer rule is to allow double, at least, for each child."

EXCESSIVE heat in the north this week has caused much suffering and many deaths. In sunny Texas the balmy breezes blow and watermelons are ripe for the cutting. Come to Texas.

THE drouth through which we are now passing is working a serious hardship on many, but old timers are used to such things and know that the fellow who can weather it will succeed when the tide turns, or rather, when it rains.

SEVERAL of Devine's local option cases were again knocked into cocked hats in the County Court here this week. The Anvil Herald does not profess to know any thing about the merits of these cases, but it does look to us like, that for the sake of the taxpayers who foot the bills, Devine should quit burdening the docket of our court with cases unless she can furnish the necessary evidence to convict.

BAND CONCERT AND BALL At Franger & Schmitt's Hall At Biry Saturday Night July 15

The concert will last from 7 to 9 o'clock after which the dance will follow. Everybody invited. BIRY MILITARY BAND.

THROUGHOUT the length and breadth of the state is now going up the cry to down the saloons by voting for state-wide prohibition July 22nd. Knowing the wide-spread prejudice against this institution, the prohibitionists have selected a very adroit plan of campaign. But in doing so the leaders are not acting candidly, we might say honestly, with the body politic. Why this cry against the saloon? What is the objection to the saloon? Primarily, because it sells a substance for general consumption that the prohibitionist says you should not use. Yet they tell you that under the operation of the proposed amendment, you can drink all of the liquor you want. And under the operation of this same kind of measure wherever tried in other states, people are doing that very thing. But the prohibitionists are not telling you how you must acquire this liquor before you can drink it. Therein lies their want of candor, and in so far as a wilful and designed refusal to be candid is dishonest, they are not acting honestly. Under the operation of the amendment there are just three ways to acquire this liquor which the prohibitionist tells you you can drink all of that you want to. One way is to make it yourself for your own use. Except to a very limited extent, as in the making of wine, this is utterly impracticable and needs no consideration. Another is to patronize the illegal dealer and become a partner in his crime, something that no man with a proper regard for the laws of his land wants to do but which many otherwise law-abiding citizens in states where such a law is in force are doing with impunity. The other is to send beyond the confines of the state for it, accept whatever the mail order house furnishes you and pay the extortionate price they charge together with the excessive express charges on the same. And this privilege is no wise certain of remaining, for the prohibitionists are moving heaven and earth to have the Federal government stop inter-state shipments of liquor into dry territory and with that accomplished the legal acquirement of liquor would depend solely upon one's ability or inclination to make it himself. Therefore, the direct assault being made upon the saloon has as its indirect but final object the preventing of the individual from taking a drink. If not, why not? Does any one for a moment think that there would be any saloons if there was no demand for the goods they dispense? Therefore, if the prohibitionists were perfectly frank with the people they would advocate the direct suppression of the act of drinking and not seek to accomplish it through indirection. Don't be a partner in such duplicity, either directly by voting for it or indirectly by remaining away from the polls, but go to the polls July 22nd and vote to retain our present system, a system that has permitted each community to adjust the traffic as suits the majority of its own citizens and provides that the man who wants to drink liquor can buy it from a responsible and bonded dealer who is amenable to the laws of your own state and not from a boot-legger or a foreign mail-order shark. See that your ticket reads Against Prohibition.

A FEW of our local Socialists have arranged for a traveling lecturer to deliver a series of lectures here in the near future, and the dates will be noted elsewhere in this issue. Notwithstanding, we are daily beneficiaries of such wholesome Socialist theories as have been worked into a practical success in the form of public roads, public schools, a public post office system, etc., the ignorance of the average man as to what Socialists teach and how they propose to form their theories into a practical working plan is little short of appalling. Don't be a scoffer or "sit in the seat of the scornful" but go out and learn something; and don't make the mistake of thinking that the Anvil Herald is a subscriber to all of their theories.

EVEN Hondo Davis is on the program for a stunt at the Alpine convention July 13 to 15. That will be worth going to witness. If Davis talks as he writes, it is all off with the balance of us.—Eagle Pass News-Guide. But we are going to be wonderous kind to Joe! When it comes our turn for a stunt, we are going to send Joe on out to the ball park in advance to pick out two nice shady seats for us where we will sit down together and he can explain to us when either of the opposing sides make a point in the game that is to follow our stunt.

THE Anvil Herald is sold at a dollar a year. If you want to encourage a paper that never sits on the fence while the procession goes by, hand or send us a dollar and get into our bandwagon.

A TRAITOR in the camp is the best protection the enemy from the outside can have!

Statewide Prohibition and the Bailey Issue

"Statewide prohibition and the Bailey question are now the paramount issues in Texas, and it is the privilege of every citizen to vote his convictions on these questions, but when they are finally settled we submit a few subjects for the consideration of the public," says the Texas Commercial Secretaries' Association.

New Campaign Issues.

There are 137,000,000 acres of land in Texas that have never been plowed; we have 40,000,000 acres of land that is located ten miles and over—some of it 350 miles—from a railroad. The Texas farmers ship $1,200,000 worth of raw material to the foreign factory daily; we have vast beds of mineral wealth stored beneath the surface which have never been touched and the list could be extended indefinitely. We would like to place these subjects in the box for those who draw campaign issues to select from. The building of an empire is a question about which there can be difference of opinion sufficiently wide to give spice and vigor to a campaign and if, after the campaign is over we could get our orators and writers to discuss Texas development for a few months and present the merits of the plow and hammer, we would awaken to vigorous activity the wealth, talent and enterprise of the people and make Texas the greatest state in the Union.

The Purpose of Government.

Settle the prohibition and the Bailey issue either way and we have not brought another acre of land under cultivation; have not constructed another mile of railroad, built another factory, opened up another mine or given additional employment to labor. In this life, first of all things, we must have bread and making it easy for the bread winner is the first duty of government. Agriculture, commerce and industry are the cornerstones of government and we cannot induce men and money to come to Texas and develop our resources by merely wishing for them as a child yearns for the moon, but we must go about it with the zeal and enterprise that a business man undertakes to increase his business or a farmer improves his farm.

Texas Growing.

When the government completes the Panama canal and the plans for the improvement of the Texas harbors are fully consummated, our industrial horizon will be greatly widened and we will be brought face to face with conditions which will force us to enlarge our ideals of the commercial destiny of Texas. Faith is a good thing in government, but work is better and we should prepare to meet conditions as they unfold to us like the ten wise virgins of the Scripture—with our lamps trimmed and burning. God, the government and outside capital have done everything possible for Texas, and if we will only meet them half way we will soon build up a civilization that surpasses anything on the globe.

"Dr. Miles' Nervine Raised Me From the Grave"—Mrs. Taylor

This is a strong statement to make, but it is exactly what Mrs. Thomas Taylor, of Blum, Texas, said in expressing her opinion of this remedy.

"Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine raised me from the grave and I have much confidence in it. I can never say enough for your grand medicines. If anyone had offered me $100.00 for the second bottle of Nervine that I used I would have said 'no indeed.'"

ANNOT REFORM BY LAW

shop Tuttle Says: "I Am Opposed to Statewide Prohibition and in Favor of Local Option."

The views of the following noted clergymen on the state-wide prohibition theory are of interest in connection with the Texas campaign.

Bishop J. S. Johnston, of the Episcopal Diocese of Western Texas, says: "All prohibition laws so far, Maine to Kansas have failed and will continue to fail because of the lack of this (public sentiment) backing; because nothing conduces to lack of respect for the law in general than the enactment of such laws as needlessly and officiously meddle with the personal rights of the individual citizen to order his affairs without any interference on the part of the public, especially through sumptuary legislation in what he shall eat and what he shall drink. Paternalism in the past has been, and we may well believe in the future will continue to be, detrimental to the highest development of individual character."

Bishop George H. Kinsolving, of Louisiana, says: "I am for high license and local option and a strict enforcement of law against intemperance," he said. "I do not believe in the wisdom or execution of state-wide prohibition. I think there are better ways of controlling the liquor question. I have known almost a total abstainer all my life. I have a perfect right to put liquor upon my own stomach—not on anybody's else—by legislation. In college I found some who drank wine, but I did not. I found some who used tobacco but I felt no need of it myself."

Bishop Tuttle Says: "They should accomplish the desired result by winning individual temperance rather than by public campaigning.
The question of prohibition, or the fair run of the liquor traffic, is a religious one. It is a difficult one to discuss, acknowledging the evils of intemperance, but all true Americans, I think, ought to strive to maintain and perpetuate American principles.

Local self-government is, I think, an American principle; state-wide prohibition opposes this principle and local option supports it. THERE-FORE I AM OPPOSED TO STATE-WIDE PROHIBITION
AND IN FAVOR OF LOCAL OP-TION."

Bishop Glennon says: "The Catholic church believes and teaches:
(1) That temperance is a virtue—temperance in all things—in eating, drinking, talking and in all the duties of life. (2) That Total abstinence from all intoxicating liquors is commendable and advisable for those who are able to drink too much. (3) It is wrong in advising the individual to drink rather than to prohibit by law."

In his opening service on February 25, 1909, Archbishop Glennon said that the basic principle of the Catholic church was to take the man away from drink rather than to take the drink away from the man. "It is from the insane man that drink must be removed," he said; "the sane man must remove himself from the drink."

Bishop Lines, of Newark, N. J., says: "Prohibition would lead to the formation of clubs which could be controlled, and which would be more demoralizing than saloons."

Bishop Grafton, of Wisconsin, says: "I can not agree with those who think that the taking of wines, beer, in moderation is wrong, because the process of fermentation is of God's creative acts, and the Master of the Christian religion turned water into wine."

Bishop Hoffman, of Philadelphia, says: "You can not legislate people being good and prohibition does not accomplish its desired end after as witnessed in the state of Maine; it is anything but a closed state in name."

Cardinal Gibbons says: "I am satisfied that it is practically impossible to put prohibition into effect in any large community. Laws prohibiting that are certain to be violated have led not to better, for instead violation draws down upon the law disrespect."

Bishop Potter says: "Our prohibition laws, whether we put them in one day or on all days, are stupid as they are ineffectual.
None of our methods for dealing with drink evil in our day and generation, are tainted with falsehood, dishonored by essential unreality and discredited by widespread and consistent failure."

Bishop Hall, of Vermont, says:
"Prohibition drives underground the mischief which it seeks to cure, making it more difficult to deal with the evil and impossible to regulate the trade, for instance, in the quality of liquor sold."

Bishop Doane, of New York, says:
"No such laws can be framed that will not create a popular excitement by its alleged interference with individual liberty, and its unfair discrimination of privilege between classes, or will be used, as it has been for many years, as a means for extorting money by city officials from violators of the law to purchase immunity."

Bishop Whittaker, says: "The true meaning of the word temperance has become dwarfed and narrowed from Christian self-control to that of total abstinence from intoxicating liquor."

Bishop Gailor, of Tennessee, says:
"Such a drastic law as prohibition, imposing a special theory of morals upon a community, must become a provocation of deception and lying and disrespect for law, which are worse than intemperance. Intemperate legislation is as bad as the intemperate use of food and drink."

Bishop Fox, of Green Bay, Wis., says: "I do not think there are five bishops in the country who are in favor of prohibition."

Bishop Clark, of Rhode Island, says: "Prohibition has been disastrous to the cause of temperance."

Bishop Spaulding, of Peoria, Ill., says: "There is a law of human nature that excessive pressure brought to bear on any special form of moral evil results in other evil; and now when various influences are diminishing intemperance in America, there seems to be no sufficient reason for calling upon the state to prohibit the manufacture and sale of alcoholic liquors."

Bishop Perry, of Iowa, says:
"There is just as much drunkenness under the prohibitory laws (in Iowa) as there ever was before. Prohibition does not prohibit. I have lived in five states where it failed utterly.
The drug stores became the saloons.
Four thousand druggists in Iowa took government licenses to sell whiskey, and it is to be supposed that they would not pay $25 for the privilege unless they really meant to sell whiskey."

Bishop Chas. D. Williams says:
"I do not believe absolute prohibition is possible."

Bishop Brown, of Arkansas, says:
"Speaking generally, I have also this objection to prohibitionary movements in the interests of any form of righteousness, that it is an attempt to build upon the sand and is a resort to the evil of tyranny that good may be accomplished. I am profoundly convinced that the superstructure which prohibitionists are seeking to erect will not stand."

Bishop Neely, of Maine, says:
"The clubs are simply coteries of young men who call themselves clubs and get together and have their bottles in their closets. I am sure these clubs have a very bad effect in that young men who never drank at all previously have done so in the secrecy of the club, as they call it; they would not be seen to drink over a bar, but they do it in their club rooms."

Bishop Satterlee, says: "Prohibition has been tried in other places, and it has been found wanting. In Maine, which is pointed out as the first place where prohibitory laws enacted, prohibition is a farce."

Archbishop Messmer says: "I do not believe that we can reform men by law. Prohibition, according to many observers, actually brings more liquor than the open sale of intoxicants under the proper police supervision."

Bishop Donahue, of West Virginia, says: "I most earnestly protest against threatened prohibition legislation."

PROHIBITION NO REMEDY.
Dr. Henry Smith Williams Discusses Question in the Ladies' Home Journal.

The Ladies' Home Journal of January 1, 1911, in the department of Both Sides of Live Questions, gives to its readers an article entitled "Is Prohibition the Remedy for the Liquor Evil?" written by Henry Smith Williams, M. D., LL. D.

Dr. Williams says:
"I believe the time to be not distant when individually, communally and nationally we shall grapple with the liquor problem as never before.
I have predicted that standing among nations may ultimately be largely determined by the adequacy of the remedies provided. But these remedies will not, in my judgment, be found through the endeavor to force upon a very large minority of the people habits of abstinence that contradict their own interpretation of personal well-being and happiness."

LIQUOR SHIPPED BY EXPRESS INTO THE PROHIBITION STATES.

The Interstate Commerce Commission Has Developed That the Traffic Will Approximate Twenty Million Gallons Annually—Conclusive Evidence from Authoritative Sources on Failure of Prohibition Theory.

(Associated Press Report.)
Washington, June 23.—Approximately 20,000,000 gallons of liquors annually are shipped by express, principally from mail order houses, directly to consumers in prohibition states. This startling fact was developed today in an inquiry conducted by the interstate commerce commission.

The commission held that the express requirement that liquor containers should be packed in corrugated paper cartons was reasonable, but that the charge for transportation based upon arbitrary weights, eighteen pounds for a gallon of whisky packed, was unreasonable and that the discrimination against stone jugs also was unreasonable.

Fostered by Prohibition.
Commissioner McChord, who conducted the inquiry, points out that the industry directly concerned is that of the mail order liquor houses.
"It was the spread of the prohibition movement," the opinion says, "that gave vitality to this character of traffic in liquor, with statewide prohibition came the interstate traffic in liquor. The decision of the supreme court that this traffic was interstate and, therefore, superior to interference by the state governments gave the industry a tremendous impetus, and established the express companies as the carriers of practically the whole of this traffic."

Startling Figures.
"Jacksonville, Fla., probably the largest shipping point for liquor in the south, sends out between 3,000 and 4,000 packages of one and two gallons daily, or a total of about one and one-half million gallons a year. Chattanooga, Tenn., ships about 785,000 gallons; Richmond, 545,720 gallons; Petersburg, 268,128; Pensacola, 267,760; New Orleans, 255,856; Augusta, 215,150, and Norfolk, Cairo (Ill.), Emporia (Va.), Louisville, Portsmouth (Va.), Roanoke (Va.) and Savannah ship more than 100,000 gallons each annually."

Cheap Whisky for Negroes.
"The movement is much more active in the south than in other sections of the country, partly because of the extent of the prohibition territory in that section, partly because of the large quantities of very cheap whisky manufactured and shipped there for the consumption of the negro population."

The opinion concludes with the statement that although it is not the function of the commission to dwell on the moral aspect of the question, it is considered that the traffic has an evil effect and is one of the important factors in the race problem of the south. (Advertisement.)

It is true that the hand book is endeavoring to show that there has been a decrease in the consumption of both distilled spirits and in fermented liquors (or beer). But the official report of the interstate commerce commission shows that instead of there being a decrease there has been an increase.

Commissioner McChord, who conducted the inquiry, points out that the industry directly concerned is that of the mail order liquor houses.
"It was the spread of the prohibition movement," the opinion says, "that gave vitality to this character of traffic in liquor. With statewide prohibition came the interstate traffic in liquor. The decision of the supreme court that this traffic was interstate and therefore superior to interference by the state governments, gave the industry a tremendous impetus and established the express companies as the carriers of practically the whole of this traffic."

"Jacksonville, Fla., probably the largest shipping point for liquor in the south, sends out between three and four thousand packages of one or two gallons daily or a total of about one and one-half million gallons a year. Chattanooga, Tenn., ships about 785,000 gallons; Richmond, 545,720 gallons; Petersburg, 268,128 gallons; Pensacola, 267,760 gallons; New Orleans, 255,856 gallons; Augusta, 215,150 gallons, and Norfolk, Cairo (Ill.), Emporia (Va.), Louisville, Portsmouth (Va.), Roanoke (Va.) and Savannah ship more than one hundred thousand gallons each annually."

The 20 million gallons of whisky shipped in accordance to the above statement, is not included in any of the statements of distilled spirits or fermented liquors produced in the prohibition states; because this was shipped into the state and not produced. In other words, prohibition states consume 2,002,532 gallons distilled spirits produced in these states, and in addition thereto, 20 million gallons shipped in, making a total of 22,002,532 gallons of whisky sold and consumed in the prohibition states during the years 1909 and 1910, which has been accounted for; to say nothing of the numerous shipments smuggled over the lines for which no accounting has been made. Besides this, 892,203 barrels of beer, containing 31 gallons each, or a total of 27,653,233 gallons, was produced, to say nothing of the beer shipped into prohibition states.

Bear in mind that the above is taken from the prohibition hand book and the official records. Statewide prohibition will cost the taxpayers of Texas $1,157,502.33, or more than two dollars per head for each voter, without a single redeeming feature. (Advertisement.)

A Sad Death.

This community was greatly shocked about noon Tuesday, July 4th, by receipt of the news that J. J. Canon was dead in San Antonio. The circumstances of his death, as near as we can get them, are that he was at his boarding house, 638½ East Commerce street. Roomers there saw him come from the bath room with a ghastly expression on his face and stagger into his apartment. His body was heard to fall heavily on the floor of the room. Those first to reach him saw his mouth was terribly burned and he was breathing in gasps. Dr. Con L. Milburn was summoned and medical aid was administered, but the unfortunate man died at 11:40 o'clock, just twenty minutes after the drug was taken. In the bath room was found an empty two-ounce bottle labeled "carbolic acid". The attending physician said he must have swallowed an ounce of the deadly drug. There was no message and the world is left to its surmises as to what caused the rash deed.

The body was embalmed at the undertaking parlors of Sloan & Hagy and shipped to Hondo on the evening train. It was met at the depot by a committee from the local Masonic Lodge, of which deceased was a member, and conveyed to his late residence here. At five o'clock Wednesday evening all that was mortal of the deceased was interred in the new cemetery by the side of his little son who preceded him in death several months ago. Rev. W. L. Marlin, a Missionary Baptist minister, conducted a brief but touching funeral service at the grave after which the body was deposited in its last resting place by his lodge according to the sadly beautiful burial rites of that ancient order.

The deceased leaves a prostrated wife and five small children, three girls and two boys, to mourn his sad and untimely death. He also has an aged father at Chester, Texas, and other relatives. He had lived here about eleven years, and was generally liked by all who knew him, being strictly honest and of a friendly and jovial disposition. He formerly farmed here, then tended bar for some time, and afterwards clerked in the Heyen & Co. store in which he was also interested as a partner. He quit there about the first of the year, however, and has not been regularly employed since then. The most of this time he has spent in San Antonio where he has worked irregularly at various things.

"Let no evil thing be said of the dead." Poor Job Canon had his weaknesses as all men have, but at heart he was a good man. What impelled him to his awful deed is his own secret and let it be buried in the grave with him. To the grief stricken ones our heart goes out in sympathy and we can but pray for them that peace that passeth understanding. Human charity may soothe the grief they feel but a merciful God alone can heal their breaking and bleeding hearts.

The 50,000 gallon tank for the Hondo railroad watering station was completed yesterday and the engines are now taking water here. This will be a great convenience to the railroad and shows their confidence in the splendid water supply of Hondo's two deep wells. With this large supply of water always on hand right in the heart of the city it will be an additional fire protection also.

Dodson's Liver-Tone Instead of Calomel

Just as Sure—Always Safe—No Bad Effects Ever Follow This Pleasant Tasting Liquid.

As a remedy for a torpid liver calomel has more than met its match in Dodson's Liver-Tone. It does not lash the liver on to perform its work at the cost of its strength.

Calomel depends for its power upon exciting the liver to do more work, and often the liver is too weak to stand such treatment, and you are worse off than before.

Dodson's Liver Tone cannot cause any of the dangerous effects that often follow the use of calomel. It is entirely vegetable and pleasant to the taste, and is suitable for children and grown people.

Get a 50c bottle at W. H. Windrow's under the guarantee that if it doesn't satisfy you that it is a perfect substitute for calomel you get your money back.

The Fourth of July.

The Fourth of July was quietly observed here. The post office and most of the business places were closed for the day, and a goodly number of our people went elsewhere to pass the day.

The principal event of the day here was a barbecue in Rothe's grove just north of town given by the local lodge of Sons of Hermann for the benefit of the members and a few invited guests. Several visiting brethren were present from neighboring lodges of that order.

Ten fat goats were barbecued to a delicious turn and these were served with an abundance of bread, pickles and coffee and all ate to their full satisfaction, both at noon and at the afternoon lunch. Refreshments of other kinds were sold on the ground, but several kegs of "German Joy" were served free to all who cared to indulge in the amber hued fluid. The day was very pleasantly spent by all present in social intercourse beneath the spreading shade of the ancient live oaks that adorn that ideal spot.

After the evening lunch had been enjoyed, the crowd repaired to College Square where a spirited game of baseball was played between members of the Hermann Sons on one side and members of the Hondo Volunteer Fire Company on the other. After the smoke and the dust of the battle had cleared away, the close of the ninth inning showed a score of 12 to 7 in favor of the fire fighters. The ball for the game was generously donated by Mr. Schmitt of the firm of Schmitt & Steinhardt to the Hermann Sons for this particular game. During the progress of the game a collection amounting to $12.60 was taken up for the benefit of the fire company, for which, we are authorized to say, the Company is duly thankful to the public.

The Biry Military Band of fifteen pieces furnished the music for the day, playing many nice selections both at the picnic grounds and at the ball game.

With the close of the ball game, the day's observance closed here and many left for the dances held that night at other places.

The Anvil Herald family and force spent a most enjoyable day as the invited guests of these splendid people and assure them one and all that the kind favor will be remembered and appreciated.
